A Rebuke to Extravagance in Dress.

When George Faulkner, the printer, returned from London, where he had been soliciting subscriptions for his edition of the Deau's works, he went to pay his respects to him, dressed in a laced waistcoat, a bagged wig, and other fopperies. Swift received hun with the same ceremonies or if he had been a stranger "And pray, sir," said he, "what are your

"I thought it was my duty, sir," replied George, "to wait on you immediately, on my arrival from London."

Pray, sir, who are you?" "George Faulkner, the printer, sir." "You George Faulkner, the printer! Why you are the most impudent, bare faced scounder of an imposter I ever met with! George Faulkner is a plain, sober citizen, and would never trick himself out in lane and other fopperies. Get you gone, you rasent, or I will im-mediately send you to the House of Correc-

Away went George as fast as he could, and, having changed his dress, he returned to the Deanery, where he was received with the greatest cordiality,

'My friend, George," said the Dean, "I am risd to see you returned safe from London.-Why, bere has been an impudent fellow with me just now, dressed in a laced waistcoat, and he would fain pass himself for you; but I sent him away with a flea in his ear."

Remedy for Flea-Eiter.

John Phænix has the following "never-fail" ing" remedies for flea-bites:

Boil a quart of tar until it becomes right thin. Remove the clothing, and before the tar becomes perfectly cool, with a broad flat brush apply a thin smooth coating to the entire surface of the body and limbs. While the tarremains soft, the flea becomes entangled in its tenacious folds, and is rendered perfectly harmless; but it will soon form a hard, smooth coat ing, entirely impervious to his bite. Should the coating crack at the knee or elbow joints. it is merely necessary to retouch it slightly at those places. The whole cost should be renewed every three or four weeks. This remedy is sure, and having the advantage of simlicity and economy, should

"A still simpler method of preventing the at tacks of those little pests, is: On feeling the bite of a fles, thrust the bitten part immediately into boiling water. The heat of the water destroys the insect and instantly removes the pain of the bite."

Beautiful And True.

In a late number of Frazier's Magazine this heartiful passage occurs: "Education does not commence with the al phabet. It begins with a mothers look-with a father's smile of approbation or sign of reproof-with a sister's gentle pressure of the hand or a brother's noble act of forbearancewith hands full of flowers in green and daisy meadows-with creeping ants and almost imperceptible emmetswith humming bees and glass bechives with pleasant walks in shady lones, and with thoughts directed in sweet and kindly tones and words to mature to acts of benevolence, to deeds of virtue, and to the source of all good, to God himself."

Washington city, who were returning home drunk from a campagne dinner, happened, in trying to regain their hotel, to blunder into a room where a steam engine had worked into a tolerable rage. "Chu-chu-phiz-zs!" went the machine, while a great dram whizzed around most furiously. "What's that?" exclaimed one of the gentlemen. "A sleamboat," said the other. "To be sure it is," said the first; "didn't I know that?" "Boy, what boat is this?" "The Phenix," said the boy, speaking in two syllables. "Whal's the passage boy? "One-fifty," said the knowing imp. "Well, here's the money," said the gentlemen, "show us our berths." "Walk aft," said the boy.— The gentlemen walked aft, the boy walked forward, and is perhaps still doing so, with a cool three dollars in his pocket.

A Double Man .- A gentleman, named Man residing near a private madhouse, met one of its poor inmates, who had broken from his keeper. The maniac suddenly stopped, and leating a pon a large stick, exclaimed,—
"Who are you, sir!"

The gentleman was somewhat alarmed, but thinking to divert his attention by a pun, he re-

"I am a double man-a man by nature and Man by name." "Are you so?" rejoined the other; "why, I Canker and Salt Rheum Syrup and Create.

IT IS AN INDISPUTABLE FACT THAT THE above medicines are the only infallible remedies now before the public for cutaneous eruptions, salt rheum, crysipelas, sore legs, ulcors, old fever sores, scald head, scarbutic cruptions, &c., &c.

Cases that the most eminent physicians have despaired of releiving, immediately yielded to their curative powers, and when used in accordance with the printed directions, which accompany each bottle, the syrup and create combined cradicates any of the above named diseases, and leaves the sufferer without a blemish. The medicines are too well known to require anything more than aplain statement of facts. The jorfulintelthan are too well known to require anything more than aplain statement of facts. The joyful intelligence is reaching us daily from east, west, north and south, of the wonderful cures that they are performing. See what is said by those who bave used these sipelas.' Capt. William Vall, of the Steamer Granite State says "they have cured my little daughter o, salt rhenm and scald head of six years' standing. She was literally covered with sores; is Hon Joel Leomis, of East Lyme, Coma., says 'I was completely cured of crysepelas in my leg, after a council of the best physicians in the county had pronounced the disease incurable, (atmy age) which was seventy eight years, but Weaver's syrup and create did the work at once."

Elias Latham, Esq., of Orient, Long Island, N. Y., says "I hardly know how to express my gratitude to you and your medicines. I have been afficied for more than thirty years with salt rheum in its worst form. I tried to find relief from various medicines. I tried several physicians in New York, Brooklyu and Greenport. I have dicted aud taken medicine enough to float a pretty large boat, but they did me no good.
